American It Bailed Under a
Nicaraguan Register.(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, May 26.—It is practically decided that the United States will take no official notice of the seizure of the schooner Esfuerso, flying an American flag, by the Nicaraguan war vessel Venus.Consul Moffat, who is in charge of affairs at Bluefields, has made a report to the state department, that while the Esfuerso was owned by an American it had a Nicaraguan register and was therefore not entitled to protection of the United States in this matter.It was announced at first that the government would take steps to have the Venus declared a pirate owing to this supposed overt act in stopping and searching an American boat after being warned not to attempt to do such a thing, but Moffat's statement alters matters.Friends of the Nicaraguan insurgents urged the department to take immediate action, feeling that this would be sufficient excuse for the landing of marines and troops to take over the government or at least reconquer the Estrada forces which are near the city.The actions of the Venus are being closely watched according to reports received and on the first false move in violation of the special orders relative to the conduct will be attacked by the American gunboats.LA FOLLETTE'S TALK

DIE ON GUILLOTINEJean Liebut, the "Human Porcupine,"
Is to Explain Murder of a Gendarme Last January.(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Paris, May 26.—A public movement is about to save from the guillotine Jean Liebut, the "Apache" leader known as the "human porcupine," now under sentence of death for the murder of a police officer last January.
The murder was motivated by revenge.
A son of two men Liebut was convicted and sent to prison on a charge of being a "white slave" dealer. He protested his innocence and swore to get revenge. Upon his release he dressed himself in a unique costume studded with sharp nails, which was concocted by his own garments. This accoutred, and armed with a revolver and knife, he deliberately sought to annihilate the police force of Paris.
In the fights in which he engaged with them the police had their hands seriously lacerated by the sharp nails in his armor. After a fierce and final battle Liebut was captured, though not before he had killed one officer and dangerously wounded six others.
Notwithstanding this, considerable public sympathy has been awakened in his behalf by the general belief that he was guiltless of the charge of white slavery and that his first conviction was a miscarriage of justice.WILL ENTERTAIN A

the millionaire who long ago estab-anniversary. Mr. Jones settled in Chicago in 1835 and one of his earliest memories of the city is the viewing of Hallock's comet from the lake front seventy-five years ago. At that time Fort Dearborn still existed for the protection of the citizens against the Potawatomi Indians who lived in the vicinity. While a young man he went into the abstract business and compiled ab-

IS FORTY-THREEFiring of Royal Salute in St. James'
Park Was Only Official Recog-

London, May 26.—Queen Mary, who within a few weeks has emerged from comparative obscurity into the fierce white light that beats upon the throne reached her forty-third birthday anniversary today, having been born May 26, 1867. Owing to court mourning there was no celebration of the anniversary. The only official recognition of the day was the firing of a royal salute at noon in St. James' Park.Within the past three weeks the newspapers have printed columns concerning the new Queen, who previously had been very little known even to the British public. In the mass of matter that has found its way into print many interesting details of character. Some of her likes and dislikes and other interesting characteristics may be summed up as follows:[Her gowns are always simple and her collar severe.She cares little for beautiful jewels and general wear none at all, except at state affairs.She feels very strongly that women in high places should be an example to the rest of womanhood and that extravagance in dress is bad taste and a bad precedent to follow.She is said to take a great interest in the woman suffrage movement and before coming to the throne she was a frequent visitor to the houses of Parliament.She is a great lover of the drama and has a keen knowledge of theatrical affairs. The late King often attended to her as "our musical and dramatic critic."She has always held that her first duty was to her husband and children, and to them she has always devoted by far the greater part of her time.She takes a keen personal interest in the conduct of affairs in her household and always insists upon a prompt settlement of all accounts.She does not affect any fads whatever declaring herself too busy to collect fashions or little dogs or to study photography.Unlike most of her family, she is passionately fond of books, and good ones. She has read widely and possesses an active and retentive memory.She is as great a stickler for the observance of public etiquette as was Queen Victoria, and as determined to hold scandal makers and scandal mongers at arm's length.She has an intimate knowledge of three languages in addition to her own, plays the piano admirably, sings with taste, and dances exceedingly well, though she seldom indulges in the pleasures of the ballroom.She has strong dislike for card playing among women and has never taken any pains to conceal her abhor-rence for bridge whist.The Queen is a tremendous believer in outdoor life and with her children has made it a point to spend certain hours each day out of doors unless the weather was exceptionally bad.NEW RELIGIOUS SECT

DANCING PARTY OF EDGERTON POST

Annual Affair Given by G. A. R. Last Evening Was Very Much Enjoyed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, May 26.—The annual May dancing party of the G. A. R. Post of the G. A. R. was held last evening in Academy Hall and was largely attended. The hall was beautifully decorated in the national colors, flags being gracefully draped about the room. Leaver's orchestra of Deloit gave a fine concert from eight o'clock until nine, after which the children danced the May pole dance. Miss Pauline Dickinson was a pretty May queen and the children performed very creditably to themselves and their instructors, Miss Sewell. The receipts from the affair were over a hundred dollars. Supper was served at the Bon Ton after the dance.

Miss Mae Delaney spent Wednesday in Janesville shopping.

Mrs. Ella Wentworth Knox of Janesville is visiting her mother, Mrs. Wentworth.

CHARLES WHELOCK BURIED YESTERDAY

Was Born and Educated in Janesville and Became One of Peoria's Foremost Merchants.

Charles E. Wheelock of Peoria, Ill., who was born in this city and graduated from the Janesville high school, and who died from Bright's disease in Peoria, Saturday night, was buried yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Wheelock was born in Janesville, Sept. 21, 1858, of fine old May State stock. His father, W. G. Wheelock, was in the grocery business and after the son graduated from high school, went to South Bend, Ind., in 1877, where he founded a branch of the parent firm under the title of W. G. Wheelock & Son. It prospered and he sold his interest to his brother, George W. Wheelock, going to Peoria and buying out the Miller Bros. firm in 1886. He conducted the business under his own name for ten years, then incorporated it as C. E. Wheelock & Co. It is now one of the largest concerns in the United States, doing an importing, wholesale and retail business of vast proportions and employing twenty-five traveling men.

In 1885 Mr. Wheelock was married to Miss Cora Black, who, with her two sons, Ralph, aged 24, and George, aged 22, survive. His mother, Mrs. Martha A. Wheelock, is still living in this city and he has four brothers, George H. and A. W. Wheelock of Rockford, Ill., Frank R. of this city, and George H., who a year ago moved to Peoria to assume the vice-presidency and active management of the Peoria house when falling health forced his brother to relinquish a part at least of the personal supervision that had brought exceptional success.

Mr. Wheelock was the first president of the Business Men's association of Peoria and was one of the founders and one of the members of the first board of governors of the Great Coeur club. He was vastly popular in business circles and few men either in business or social life achieved the place occupied by him. Always the same quiet, unassuming gentleman, full of energy and gifted with rare business sagacity, in the commercial world he won a foremost place. In private life his friends were literally only numbered by the wide circle of his acquaintances. He was a man who stood well and his many virtues were intertwined, while his faults, if any existed, were those of generosity. He was a pioneer in the commercial progress of Peoria and always to the fore where enterprise and money were required for the public good.

AGED ONE-ARMED SAILOR WAS GIVEN "TIE PASS"

Peter Berg, Who Came From China to Frisco With a Cargo of Tea Was in Court This Morning.

Peter Berg, a white-haired Norwegian sailor who has lost an arm and who claims to have made his last voyage from China to San Francisco with a cargo of tea, told a hard luck story in broken English in municipal court this morning and begged for a "tie pass" to enable him to get to relatives at St. Louis, Ill., in lieu of a bail sentence for drunkenness. Judge Philo had fined him $2 and costs with the alternative of five days but suspended the order for just half an hour.

Albert Dorsey looked into the court right in the eye and said that he had been at work in Duluth and Superior for two or three weeks. When questioned regarding this surprising announcement he admitted that he came back to Janesville about a month ago. The toll therefore belonged in the category of "ancient history." "If you got that far away, Albert, why in the world didn't you stay?" said the judge in tones of deep regret mingled with incredulity.

John Daly of Clyman was unable to pay $2 and costs and went to the bar for five days.

George Kulshelk, whose wife complained that he was beating her and sent for the police last evening, pleaded not guilty to a drunkenness charge. His trial was set for this afternoon.

Tuesday evening the class play exercises will occur in the high school assembly room, which will be furnished by the Junior Boys' Orchestra. Wednesday afternoon the eighth grade graduating exercises will occur. Commencement proper will take place Thursday night in the S. D. B. church. Friday is the annual school picnic at Lake View and Saturday night brings the events to a close when the Annual Banquet calls together the graduates of this and former years.

The baseball game here tomorrow afternoon promises to be the most exciting one of the interscholastic League season. Palmyra, the 1909 champions, will cross bats with the local lights who have not lost a league game this year. As this is Milton's last pennant contest, the flag will undoubtedly be won by them. A parade headed by the city band and the Palmyra team carrying the pennant and escorted by the Milton and Milton Junction lines will be formed just prior to the game. The locals hope to arrange for an exhibition game here next Wednesday with either Fort Atkinson, Evansville or Janesville, before starting on their Chicago trip June 6th.

Capt. Edson S. Williams.

The funeral of the late Captain Edson S. Williams was held from the residence, 302 Jefferson avenue, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. An impressive service by the Reverend J. W. LOYALTY TO TAFT.

"A sense of loyalty to the Taft administration was the animating impulse of that conference of representative republicans in Milwaukee last week. That there is an abundance of such sentiment throughout the state, awaiting just such an appeal for a return to harmonious republicanism on that basis, is already emphatically manifest.

"The vital need of Wisconsin republicanism, split and disorganized as it has been by local causes and on local and personal issues, very evidently is the assertion of a principle of harmony which no true republican should reject, and the raising of a standard to which all loyal and honest republicans can rally.

"Wisconsin is a republican state with a splendid republican tradition in arms and in statesmanship. Yet it is hardly too much to say that at the present time there is no republican party in the state. Such is the result of local disintegrating and disorganizing causes which it were needless to specify.

"Now all of us want, or should want, to restore order out of chaos, and restore the torn and shattered republican party in this state to the position and prestige its numbers and loyalty to fundamental party principles entitle it to. There must be some live text, and some watchword of the hour broad enough and appealing enough to rally genuine Wisconsin republicans once more under one banner.

"It was the sense of the conference last week that loyalty to the Taft administration in its brave and patient struggle to carry out the Roosevelt-Taft policies, and the platform promises should be made the text and the rallying cry for Wisconsin republicanism, and provide the lever to lift it out of the slough of factionalism and misunderstanding. We do not see how a less objectionable and a sounder principle of loyalty and harmony could be devised.

"Our Wisconsin progressives favor the 'Roosevelt policies.' Our Wisconsin conservatives favor the 'Taft methods.' So President Taft means 'Roosevelt policies' plus 'Taft methods.' Now it is possible for any honest Wisconsin republican to reject such a test as endorsement of the administration of President Taft?"

The Milwaukee Sentinel thus discusses the republican convention soon to be held in Milwaukee. The slogan of the insurgent movement will be "loyalty to Roosevelt," for while opposed to Taft and his administration they propose to fight under cover.

It might be well for these misguided brothers to remember that Roosevelt is loyal to Taft, as they will discover soon after his return next month. These two great leaders are to speak from the same platform in New York, June 25, at the opening of the state campaign, and it is safe to say that there will be no discordant note.

The insurgents are banking on Roosevelt's sympathy and support, but they will be disappointed. He is too good a republican to be allied with any movement which seeks to demoralize the party which has honored him.

The Milwaukee conference will be well attended by republicans from all parts of the state who are loyal to both Taft and Roosevelt.

STRONG ENDORSEMENT.

Senator Drexler of Grand Rapids, is out with a strong endorsement for Senator Fairchild for governor. He says:

"As a member of the state senate he had the confidence of his colleagues to a high degree, including every faction and party. His mind is in the first instance judicial, and he never took a step without first weighing carefully the result. He favored no faction and had no interests to serve. He supported and advocated all progressive legislation, but was not a radical."

"Senator Fairchild always took his stand on pending legislation on the merits of the particular measure, regardless of who proposed or advocated it. He often voted against measures that I favored and for measures which I opposed, and he frankly told me his reasons."

"Senator Fairchild's sympathies were always with the poor and unfortunate, and he took a decided interest in all legislation affecting charitable and penal institutions. He is a true friend of the common people, but he is not one of those who continually make this profession to the public. There is absolutely none of the demagogue in his makeup."

The tariff commission and the money necessary to support it is now an assured fact, and good results will follow. The tariff question is so complex, and so many interests are affected that congress can not deal with it intelligently, and a nonpartisan, unprejudiced commission has long been regarded as the only solution. This is what the manufacturers and business men of the country have recommended.

The Hallinger-Pinchot investigation has finally closed, much to the relief of a weary constituency. Just what the finding of the committee will be is not of great importance. The President discharged Pinchot and sustained Hallinger, and the verdict of public sentiment endorsed his action long before the investigation was started.

The state of Iowa comes to the front with $75,000,000 worth of hogs and yet the insurgents of the state are not happy. There is no tariff on hogs, and the corn that makes the pork is also duty free. The people of the Hawkeye state ought to be as happy as pigs in clover and they would be but for disgruntled leaders, who imagine they have a grievance.

In spite of a backward spring, crop reports from all parts of the country are good and a year of continued prosperity is assured. If congress will get down to business and adjourn at an early date, it will be a good thing for the country. Too many laws are ruinous to business and too much regulation is demoralizing.

When the government goes into the banking business through the channel of the Postal Savings banks, soon to become a law, there will be less money hid away in stockpiles and safety deposit vaults; as timid people will have confidence in the enterprise. This is the only good argument in favor of the scheme.

Halley's comet is no longer a joke. It has one tail and possibly two, and while not traveling on scheduled time, still has the right of way. When the astronomers are through guessing the common people will know as much about it as the scientists and no one will know the difference seventy-five years hence.

The lighting committee of the common council will doubtless call on the New Gas Light company before action is taken on the city lighting contract. A combination of gas and electricity, without increasing the appropriation, would give us well lighted streets and a most satisfactory service.

The principal trouble with the State Board of Agriculture is that the organization had too many treasurers. There was no more occasion for the heads of departments to handle money than there would be for the same class of men to pay out money for a private corporation.

The proposed republican convention to be held in Milwaukee, June 8th, meets with popular approval and promises to be an old time republican rally. The disorganized party will be re-organized and loyalty will be the watchword.

The candidacy of Senator Fairchild appeals to the young men of the state, and thousands of them will rally to his support. He is an ideal candidate for governor, and his republicanism has never been questioned.

PRESS COMMENT.

Thou, Too, Brutal!
 "He won't trust me near him!" cries the insurgent in a tone of reproach, and while he speaks, he takes a firm grip of the poisoned dagger which he is trying to plunge between the president's political ribs.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

According to Hoyle, Dr. Eliot says it is more important to know how to draw well than to spell correctly. O, well, now. That may depend on the game.—Madison Democrat.

For a Purpose?

Mayor Rose has shook the Milwaukee dust from his feet or rather the Milwaukee foam from his lips and left the city to itself and its poor old state fair.—San Pedro Leader.

Is the verb in the above sentence used for the purpose of arousing the ire of the Oshkosh Northwestern, critic of state press grammar?

Poor Viewpoint.

Just the same it is not quite true to say "The state republicans are to hold a convention." The "republican" republicans are the only ones interested in this plan, and in reality the republicans are only a very small portion of the state republicans.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Gloomy Bob.

Bribery in St. Louis, bribery in San Francisco, bribery in Albany, bribery in Pittsburgh—now it is bribery in Illinois.

As a rash appearing upon the skin indicates an unhealthy condition within, so these disclosures of civic corruption bespeak the disease that infects the body politic.

Its remedy is democracy—more democracy—real democracy. La Follette's Weekly.

So when democracy exhibits symptoms of an "unhealthy condition within," the remedy is more of the thing that is internally unhealthy, eh? Is that your logic?

If our democracy is in "an unhealthy condition within," then our foreign critics and ill-wishers are right about it.

But it isn't. It is sound within, in spite of the glibly uttered railing of our "reformers" and muckrakers.

One trouble with these professional pessimists and cheap jeremiads is that that make as much fuss over a phuple on the skin of the "body politic" as if it were cancer of the stomach.

If our senior senator would occasionally divert his gaze from "civic corruption" to our large and growing stock of civic wholesome it might help his digestion.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

CROSS EYED PEOPLE.

Strabismus is the technical name given by oculists to "cross-eyes." And do you know there is such a thing as mental strabismus?

Just as the vision of the natural eye is impaired by the defect, so the vision of the mind, "the mind's eye," is affected by a like malady.

Like the cross eyed person, the victim of this mental disease sees a distorted object.

I know a farmer who has mental strabismus. When it rains he is sure the crops will be ruined by the wet season, and when it doesn't rain he is certain there will be a long and disastrous drought.

I know a merchant who suffers in the same way. It is never cold enough to sell winter goods, and it is always too chilly for the sale of summer fabrics.

I know a lawyer who thinks nearly every member of the bar is crooked and that the community never has given him credit for his ability.

I know a preacher who is forever deploring the decline of religion and the state of the church and because people do not come to hear him preach.

I know a doctor who takes up your time to explain how his brother physicians violate "professional ethics" and who leaves the impression that he thinks himself immaculate.

I know an editor who continually finds fault with his town and the people and who seldom prints a "boost" for his community.

I know a man who sees nothing good in his fellows, who finds fault with his neighbor's children and who is busy the whole summer through in a controversy with other people's dogs and chickens.

I know a woman who scents a scandal whenever she sees two persons of opposite sex talking together alone, who is sure the grocer cheats her on every purchase and is always ready to suggest that so-and-so is not as good as she appears to be.

Cross eyed people.

The cure?

Natural cross eyes may be straightened and cured by a surgical operation that has become common with oculists. But there is no way that I know of by which mental strabismus may be cured.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER

By WALT MASON.

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

Now the long, long day is fading, and the hush of dusk is here, and the stars begin to radiate, each one in MAN'S SLEEP its distant sphere; and the city's strident voices dwindle to a gentle hum, and the heart of man rejoices that the hour of rest has come. Throw away labor's fetter, when the day has reached its close; nothing in the world is better than a weary man's repose. Nothing in the world is sweeter than the sleep the laborer finds, while the ravening mosquitoes fatten on the window blinds. Nothing in the world is more refreshing than the moon can wake him, short of cannon crackers' roar. If you'd rouse him you must shake him till you dump him on the floor. Idle people seek their comfort, seek their hods to toss and weep, for a demon on them crouches, driving from their eyes the sleep. And the weary hours they number, and they cry, in tones distraught: "For a little wind of slumber, I would give a house and lot!" When the long, long day is dying, and you watch the twinkling stars, knowing that you'll soon be lying, sleeping like a train of cars, be then, thankful, without measure; be as thankful as you can; you have milled us great a treasure as the gods have given man!

SPLENDID RECORD OF A CHICAGO BOY

W. M. C. Raich, Seven Years Old, Has Not Missed Sunday School for Five Years.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., May 26.—At the World's Sunday School convention now in session here, delegates are present from every city in the union and from fifty-two foreign countries. They present a most cosmopolitan appearance, and their intense enthusiasm over the work is evident on every hand.

Among the many interesting figures the little seven-year-old Chicago boy who has not missed Sunday school since he was two years old, perhaps attracted the most attention. Rev. J. H. Chittambar, delegate from Luxnow, India, with his oriental dress—complete with the American overcoat—presented a picturesque figure.

Upper left—W. M. C. Raich, seven-year-old Chicago boy who has not missed Sunday school since he was two years old and said to have the best attendance record of any boy in the United States. HARRIMAN-RUMSEY NUPTIALS TODAY

Eldest Of Children Of Late Millionaire Railroad Magnate Bride Of Sculptor Today.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

New York, May 26.—St. John's Episcopal church at Arden was the scene of a notable though quiet wedding today, when Mary Harriman, eldest of the children of the late E. H. Harriman, the millionaire railroad magnate, became the bride of Charles Cary Rumsey, son of Laurence D. Rumsey of Buffalo. Only the relatives and intimate friends of the two families were in attendance.

The Rev. Dr. J. H. McGinnis, rector of St. John's performed the ceremony, which was followed by breakfast at Arden House. The Harriman country seat. Miss Carol Harriman was her sister's only attendant. Mr. Rumsey had his brother, Lawrence D. Rumsey, as his best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Rumsey will spend most of the summer at Arden, while Mrs. Harriman and her daughter, Miss Carol Harriman, and her son will go to the Far West and the Hawaiian Islands.

Today's wedding is the culmination of a pretty little romance. The couple first met four years ago at some races at the Meadow Brook Club. Later Mr. Rumsey, who is a sculptor, undertook some work at Mr. Harriman's new house at Arden. He was up there a good deal, and so got on intimate terms with the family.

The bride is the oldest living child of Mrs. Harriman. She made her debut about six years ago. There are two other daughters, Cornelia, the wife of Robert Livingston Gerry, and Carol, who made her debut last year. Miss Mary Harriman was her father's confidante in many of his business affairs and was trained especially to understand the management of the great estate at Arden. Mr. Harriman's confidence in her judgment was so great that he made her one of the executors of his estate. For some years she has been interested in settlement work and took up a number of studies, her practical knowledge of biology being considerable.

Mr. Rumsey is thirty years old, and was graduated from Harvard in 1902. He spent several years in the study of art in Boston and Paris and afterwards settled in this city. He is well known in art circles, although he has not exhibited very much of his work. He had a bronze of an Indian at the Buffalo exposition, and later held an exhibition of his bronze work there.

The bridegroom's father made a large fortune in the tanning and railroad business in Buffalo and has a large estate on Delaware Avenue in that city. Mr. Rumsey inherited his artistic tastes from his mother's family, one of her brothers, Edward Cary, being a well known sculptor. Another uncle, Dr. Charles Cary, is a member of the staff of the University of Buffalo and is one of the leading medical practitioners of that city. A third uncle, Thomas Cary, owns one of the largest hotels in Buffalo.

COMMENCEMENT ENDS AT TUSKEGEE NORMAL

Tuskegee, Ala., May 26.—The twenty-ninth annual commencement at the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute ended today with the graduation exercises, when diplomas were given to one of the largest classes in the history of the institution. Lewis of Boston, assistant United States district attorney in that city. Special trains brought large numbers of visitors from Montgomery, Opelika and other points.

Rotation of the Earth.
The rotation of the earth, at the equator, is at the rate of 1,000 miles per hour. One situated on the parallel of 40, the length of which is equal to half the circumference of the equator miles at the rate of nearly 500 miles an hour, while a point seven miles from the pole moves in the course of 24 hours through a circle of 23 miles, or at a rate of less than one mile an hour.

CLINE AND HOPPE IN CUE CONTEST

At New York to Settle 18.2 Balk-Line Billiard Championship—Tennis Tourney at Crawfordville

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, May 26.—Lovers of the green table sport are keenly interested in tonight's match for the 18.2 balk line billiard championship between Harry Cline of Philadelphia, the present holder of the championship title, and Willie Hoppe, the youthful wonder with the cue. The match, which will be played at the New York Theatre Concert Hall, will be at 500 points, and the winner will receive a purse of $1,000 and a gold medal emblematic of the championship. Both of the principals appear to be in excellent form for the contest. Hoppe is confident he will win and Cline is equally sure he will be able to retain his championship.

College Tennis Tourney.
Crawfordville, Ind., May 26.—Play in the first annual tennis tournament for the Indiana collegiate championship will begin here tomorrow on the courts at Wabash College. All arrangements have been completed for the tournament, which promises to be a highly successful affair. The contestants will include tennis experts from Notre Dame, DePaul, Indiana, Wabash, Purdue, Butler, Hanover and Earlham colleges. Several cups and other trophies will be awarded upon the conclusion of the events.

ONE LAW THAT REACHES ALL

No Evasion or Compromise Possible When One Is Dealing with the Rule of Karma.

Put in everyday English, Karma is the law that whatever you have coming to you is bound to catch up with you sooner or later, and you can't sidestep it. It may be good, or it may be bad, or it may be a little of both, but it will find you, no matter how many times you have moved away without leaving your new address. And whatever it is it will be exactly what your own actions have made you deserve. Not an ounce more, nor an ounce less, nor a fraction thereof.

Some people call this law Nemesis. Some call it by other names. Some don't call it at all, but they don't need to. It comes without calling. Some people say they don't believe in it, and some scoff at it. But the law goes right on minding its own business and saying very little.

Probably the majority of thinking people agree on this much—that somehow or other things are to be evened up in the long run; that we are all going to get our just deserts before the final gong sounds, if there is any. So suppose we let the word Karma stand for that idea and go ahead to see how the thing works out in the realm of modern business.

The principle that we are punished by our sins, not for them, is pretty evident anywhere, but if you want to see it working hard and fast and all the time just take a look into the average commercial concern. For quick returns in this Karma business, commend me to the marts of trade.—Nantilus.

PLEASANT FOR THE TRAVELER

Russian Method of Safeguarding Czar Necessarily Led to Some Appreciation.

The late William F. Ingersoll, the noted life insurance manager, was an authority on insurance rates.

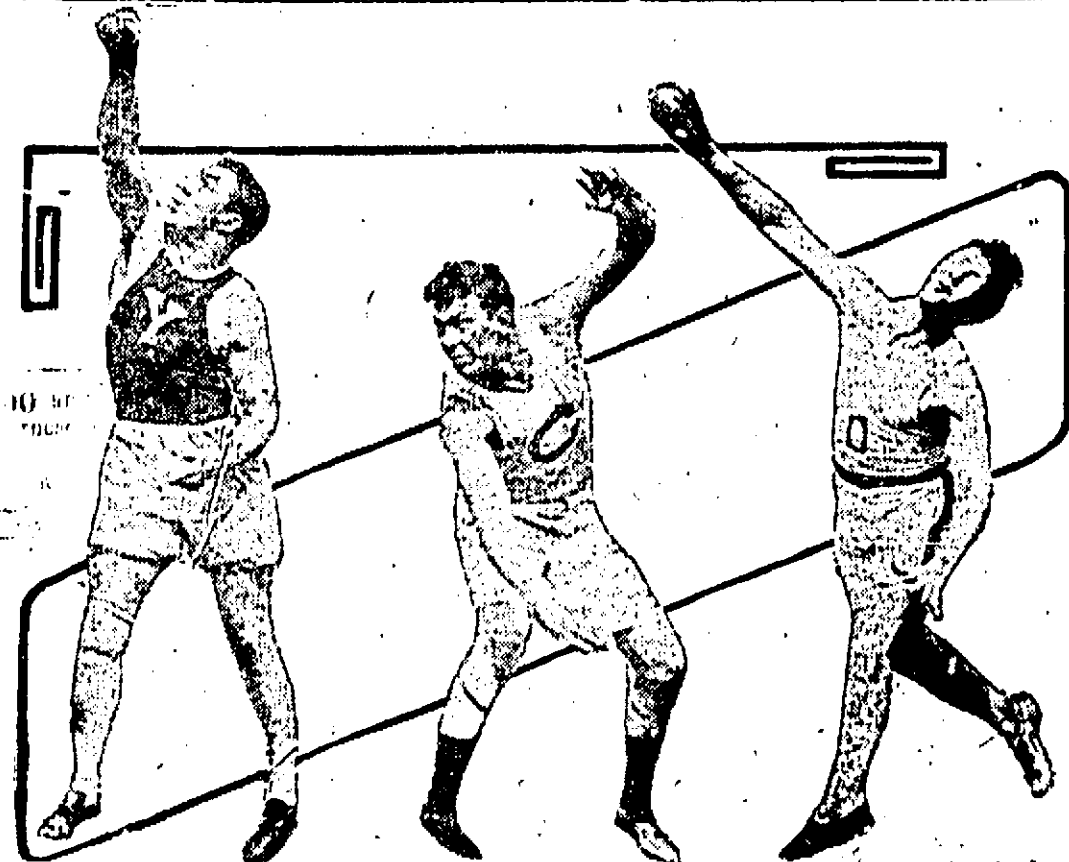

"Mr. Ingersoll knew the rates all over the world," said a New York manager, recently. "The Russian rates are very high. Mr. Ingersoll once explained to me, with a story, why this was."

"A traveler in Russia, he said, noticed that the train was all decorated with flags and banners, and at every station a company of soldiers, and a band playing the national anthem. The traveler asked a barkman the reason of all this ceremony. The barkman, lowering his voice, replied:

"I don't mind telling you, sir—but in the strictest confidence, he understood—that a carriage in this train has been engaged for his majesty. But his majesty, as a matter of fact, won't set off till this evening. Thus the plot hatched against him may take effect on this train, you see, and our gracious sovereign will be saved."

"The brakeman touched his cap and passed on, and the traveler, suddenly grown pale and nervous, stared from the window anxiously."

THREE REMARKABLE COLLEGE STRONG MEN IN ACTION.
Left to right, Kilpatrick of Yale, Talbot of Cornell, Hess of Dickinson.

These three athletes are to be chiefly considered in the eastern intercollegiate events of the season when it comes to shotputting. Talbot is really the star of the trio, and has no rival in the east. Indeed, Joe Horner of Michigan is about the only college man who has anything on him now. Talbot has been strongly in the limelight ever since he began doing athletic work at Mercurius. Kilpatrick is Yale's best man. He is also a football star, being named an All-American end. Notice the different attitudes taken by these stars in performing the same feat.

at Fond du Lac.

Jack Delaney, a welterweight from

San Francisco and a nephew of Billy

Delaney, Jim Joffrey's former trainer, now Jack Delaney's chief adviser, is in the city looking for matches with anyone at 142 pounds. Delaney, who eight years, has fought in over two hundred fights and has appeared before most of the clubs on the coast and also in Wyoming and Nebraska.

Recently he stayed away Brigham

Young of North Platte, Neb., in nine rounds, and he also holds a decision over Jack Loherty of Milwaukee. His last engagement was with Stanley

Ketchel, the middle weight champion with whom he acted as sparring partner while Ketchel was training for his fight with Frank Klum of Pittsburg. Delaney has received an offer from Fond du Lac to meet Tommy Gavagan of Cleveland in the whidup of the last show of the season in Fond du Lac and if satisfactory terms

can be arranged, will accept the offer.

He is now doing light training in preparation for the proposed bout.

MUST REGISTER ALL

CONSUMPTION CASES

Laymen as Well as Physicians Are

Obligated to Make Reports to the Health Officer.

A vigorous effort is being made by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association to enforce the state law which requires all persons, whether physicians or laymen, to report immediately all cases of consumption to health authorities for registration as soon as they come to notice.

"The reasonableness of this law is not generally recognized by either the attending physicians or the families of patients, as it should be. Apparently health officers, even,

do not appreciate how much influence the enforcement of the law would have in improving public health.

"It was for the purpose of bringing out concrete first hand evidence from actual conditions right here in Wisconsin, that the association undertook the investigation project. The work was begun in Milwaukee as presenting the highest individual problem. The association now has facts and does not need to depend upon experience of others for argument.

"One case out of a large number on record is of a careless consumptive who has moved repeatedly.

Other families have moved into the houses vacated and been subjected to infection. A few days ago one of the association's visitors found a family with many young children moving into the last house vacated by this consumptive. The health department, upon being notified, disinfected that house at once.

"Nothing very great is going to be accomplished until all patients are registered. We can protect ourselves against dangers that we know about, but it is well nigh impossible to protect ourselves against an enemy that is completely hidden."

The association's bulletin calls upon every city to furnish one individual who will demand that the law be enforced—not because it is the law—

but to cut down a needless source of much infection.

DISCUSSES PLANS

Says Proposed Roosevelt Reception in

New York is a National Affair.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, May 26.—Concerning

the reception of former President

Roosevelt in New York on June 18th,

Congressman W. J. Cary of Wisconsin said today:

"It seems hard to conceive of a man

reflecting more credit upon his country than Colonel Roosevelt has upon the United States during his trip through Europe and England and I think it only proper that his fellow

Americans should accord him the heartiest sort of welcome when he sails into New York harbor on June

18th. I feel sure that my state will be well represented and I hope the

SUGAR FRAUD WITNESS TELLS JUDGE HE WANTED TO CONFESS ALL.

DID NOT HOPE FOR PARDON

Oliver Spitzer Creates Dramatic Scene Before New York Court—Henry O. Havemeyer's Name Is Brought Into the Case.

New York, May 26.—Oliver Spitzer, former superintendent of the docks of the American Sugar Refining company in Williamsburg, who recently was pardoned from the penitentiary by President Taft, explained why he did not confess during the trial which ended last February with his being sentenced to two years at Atlanta. Such a confession, he declared, would "have carried him to a cemetery." In other words, he would have implicated a dead man, Henry O. Havemeyer, late head of the sugar trust.

Spitzer was under cross-examination by the defense in the trial of Charles H. Helke, secretary-treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company, who with five subordinates is charged with conspiracy to defraud the government by underweighting sugar.

Washington D. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining company, who is under subpoena to appear, watched Spitzer closely as he began his testimony.

Spitzer said that Theodore A. Havemeyer, brother of the late H. O. Havemeyer, appointed him superintendent of the Williamsburg dock. When he left Atlanta prison Spitzer said he had no hope of a pardon, and added:

"I left my effects in Atlanta. I came here to unburden myself of the great wrong I had done all these years. I wanted to confess all my sins before this court and tell all I know."

"I wanted to stand among my fellowmen once more and tell all I had done before. I wanted to be forgiven of all that cumbered me those sleepless nights in Atlanta prison, where I suffered so much. I couldn't stand it any longer."

"I told Captain Flynn of the secret service in Atlanta that I couldn't stand the torture; that I must tell the truth and I wouldn't have been behind those bars if I had taken the advice of my lawyers, Mr. Mackrell and Mr. Cochran."

"They told me to confess, if I had anything to confess after my conviction last February. They told me to confess before it was too late."

Former Counsel Entranced. Spitzer's former counsel, Mackrell and Cochran, who are now defending the ex-government checkers, Hilditch and Vonker, two of the six defendants, leaned forward in their chairs listening with rapt attention to the testimony of their former client.

Spitzer said he had received the pardon in the United States district attorney's office just before he took the stand Monday morning.

No promise, he said, had been made him by Prosecutor Stimson or anyone else connected with the government.

Says He Told Truth. Spitzer stood the cross-examination well. It was neither prolonged nor severe. On the redirect examination Prosecutor Stimson asked him if he desired to change his testimony as given last Monday.

"No, I told the truth and have nothing to correct," was Spitzer's reply.

"PIT KING" PATTEN TO RETIRE.

Declares He Is Weary of Publicity, Praise and Abuse.

Chicago, May 26.—Weary of publicity, tired of fame, of newspaper praise and abuse, James A. Patten, the wheat and cotton king, is to retire with his millions from business July 1. After July 1 he will spend his time "taking it easy," jaunting through Europe and hunting solitude. His traditions in the future will be to accept—through brokers—and will be "just for the fun of it."

The "pit king" wearily laid back in his chair in the office of Bartlett, Patten & Co., and made this positive declaration. At the same time he announced that his brother, George W. Patten, also would leave the "trade." The latter's retirement is due to ill health.

LANDSLIDE THREATENS CANAL.

Culebra Cut Is in Danger According to Chief Engineer.

Washington, May 26.—Reports from the chief engineer of the construction work on the Panama canal, received at the war department, are to the effect that a crisis is near in connection with the great landslide on the Culebra cut.

The slide which consists of 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rocks, has been moving into the cut for some time, but in the last few days the movement has increased at a pace that portends a catastrophe.

Several buildings already have been moved owing to crumbling of the foundations.

The engineers apprehend no serious loss of property or life, but what effect the slide will have on work on the canal is a matter of conjecture.

Map showing proposed route of fleet of England's great dreadnought and Admiral William Henry May, who will in all probability be in command of the fleet.

London, England.—England will be the next country to assemble a battleship fleet, to include dreadnoughts and cruisers, for a trip around the world. England's naval tactics have been revolutionized by recent events, and this cruise is the most radical of the changes.

The trip of this gigantic fleet is not to take place until the autumn of next year. This will make it possible for the 26,000-ton battleship of the Prince of Wales type—the largest in the world—and "now building, to be at the head of the naval procession. Great secrecy has been maintained by the admiralty office of these plans, but naval officers here and the activity of diplomatic agencies have revolved enough to show that the plans have passed the tentative stage. England has concluded a try-out assemblage of her battleships in the North sea, which is about to terminate, and which has been England's greatest naval demonstration over attempted. Twenty-two battleships, 13 armored cruisers, 10 protected cruisers and 50 destroyers and lesser craft will comprise the North sea fleet. The fleet that is to go around the world and which will stop at various foreign ports is to cruise at least two years. Two hundred ships of all classes will be included. A fleet of about fifteen submarines is to accompany the dreadnoughts under assignment of one submarine to each battleship. This will be the first time in naval history that the little craft will be tested by the severe strain of ocean service. Dispatches received in Washington state that the fleet as far as made up on paper by the admiralty office will be as follows: Dreadnoughts, 15; first class battleships, 25; armored cruisers, 20; protected cruisers, 10; miscellaneous cruisers, 18; scout ships, 10; torpedo boat destroyers, 60; torpedo boats number not decided on, and submarines, 15. The route, as arranged, is to start the fleet from various ports on the British coast. Assembling the ships under one flag, which will be the executive ship, and subdividing the fleet into sections, each consisting of a small and complete fleet in itself, with subsidiary flagships in command, and of England's foremost officers, they will pass through Gibraltar. Visits of courtesy will be made at Marseilles and Naples where some of the officers will be given leave of absence to attend the international exposition at home; a section is to visit a Turkish port, thence will rejoin the main fleet, which will pass through the Red sea to Aden.

Slow steaming will be undertaken along the Indian ocean. The fleet will again be subdivided for visits to China and Indian ports. At the conclusion of these visits the fleet will assemble in the Yellow sea, where long stops will be made. Thence the ships will go to San Francisco. What details will regulate the lap between the latter port and the North Atlantic coast is not known. It is stated by a naval authority that to take this vast number of ships around Cape Horn presents most difficult obstacles, but since the American battleships braved them England will not be afraid of the trip.

The first combined international "All America" Rugby football team ever selected to tour and actually play in a foreign country. Front row (left to right)—C. Phleger, C. McIntire, J. Dwiggins, T. Sanborn, C. Allen, Second row—Professor O'Neill, A. Elliott, Manager D. Burbank, Coach J. Schaffer, L. Chrest, C. Paddy, L. Wolff, Third row—A. Roth, E. Watts, M. Morris, M. M. Harris, D. Ardley, D. Swartz, Back row—D. Hudd, F. C. Brown, H. D. Horton, K. L. Cole, J. Britton, D. Erb.

San Francisco.—The All American Rugby football team left for Australia Tuesday, though not by any means a thoroughly representative team, is a really good one, and the managers are deserving of great credit for the men they have selected. This applies with only one or two exceptions, as certain of the men had to be selected to make up the quota, when the original men failed to accept the invitation. Several of the really rugby players in this country could not for various reasons make such an extended trip, and the selectors had then to do the next best thing and fill their places with the next best remaining players.

The forwards are a fine lot and will take a lot of beating. The backs will be greatly handicapped against the fast and tricky backs of the different Australian teams. Another weakness of the backs is the lack of experience of several.

The inexperienced men will be easily picked out by the Australian men and their attack will be devoted to those points where the weakness is apparent.

The forwards are a heavy lot, and in this respect they will have an advantage over their Australian opponents.

A weight advantage in rugby is not always the same advantage that it invariably means in the football code of football. In the latter style of game weight is very essential and yet in rugby many of the best players are extremely small. In rugby countries, a very heavy man seldom is given the chance that a lighter man is, and if some of the big men playing rugby here were to play in other countries their ability would be doubted. Horton, Dole and many of the other forwards will bring forth expressions of admiration and wonder from the spectators in Australia, as such large men are not looked upon as rugby men of the first degree there.

If the forwards can beat their opponents for the ball in the scrum and get it out to their halfbacks, then they will have done good work and it will be up to the backs to continue with the advantage that their forwards have given them. Just whether the backs are capable of fully continuing with the advantage gained remains to be seen.

The whole team is very enthusiastic over the trip, and well they might be. None of them fully realize what such a trip means. It is not merely a series of football games between two teams, but the football honor of two great countries is at stake. This is the first combined international All American rugby football team that has ever been selected to actually play and tour in a foreign country. Harvard and Yale frequently compete with Oxford and Cambridge universities, both in this country and England, but there has never been a football team selected to represent this country in international games, except the All California team that played the Wallabies in February, 1909.

Half an hour later found him prone and exhausted on the yellow sands. Nearby tall and stately trees nodded at him. Close at hand, a great crab regarded him with reflective interest, hesitating between prudence and carnivorous desire. Glutinous fascination to sample the goods the gods had provided prevailed over caution. It moved quickly forward, when what it had considered only an unexpected and welcome place of resistance abruptly got up. The tables were turned. That which came to dine was dined upon. A crushing blow demonstrated the law of the survival of the fittest. The weaker adored the board. The man tore it to bits—ate it like the famished animal he was.

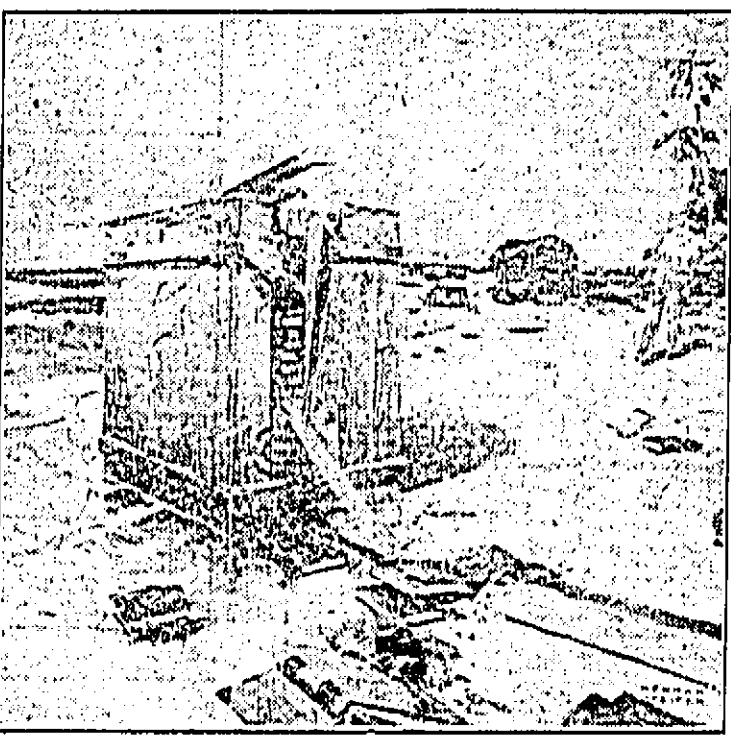

For a week nothing of moment interrupted the even tenor of his existence. He led the life of a savage and found it to his liking, pottered upon turtles and cooked them, kept his fire going because he had but few matches. One day a box was washed ashore, a message from the civilized found proved a different sort of merchandise.

Maddened, he tossed and scattered the contents of the box on the beach. The ocean had deceived him, laughed at him, cheated him. He turned from the shore unsteadily, walked back to his camp and knocked the neck from one of the two remaining bottles. A few hours later, sudden, scottish, he lay without motion, face to the sky. And as he breathed thickly, one bleeding hand still holding the empty bottle, a bird from an overhanging branch looked down upon him—a tiny bird, little bigger than his thumb, that carried a bright, beautiful spot of red on its breast, cocked its head questioningly.

CHAPTER IV. THE WHEELS OF JUSTICE.

LONDON in the spring! Sunshine, the Thames aglow with silver ripples, singing as it flows; red sunset, joyous London that has emerged from fogs and centers to the field of primitive man. On his cover were the words, "Via Sailing Vessel Lord Nelson," followed by the address. The convict pried the boards apart and gave a shout. Rum, and plenty of it—bottle after bottle in an overcoat of straw, heaving lovingly one upon another! The man licked his lips, knocked off a neck, drank deep, and then, stopping many times, carried his treasure to his bow.

Day after day turned his page, merged into the past; sometimes, perhaps, he got up, and, not a pleasant thing to look at, staggered to the bench with his club. There he would stay some crawling thing from the sea, return with his prize to mingle eating with drinking until, satiated with both, he would fall back unconscious among the pavers. But the prolonged indulgence began to have a marked effect on his store. Bottle after bottle was tossed off, the empty shells hung aside to the daisies. At length the day came when only two bottles remained in the case, one full, pale, sole survivors of the lot. The man took them out, set them up and regarded them; a sense of impending disaster, of imminent tragedy, shivered through his dulled consciousness. He reached for the bottles and fondled them, started to knock the head from one and put it down. Restless desire, he told himself he would have a look at the bench; the ocean had generously sent one box of well primed bottles at his feet; perhaps it would repeat its hospitable action and make him once more the recipient of its bounty. The thought buoyed him to the shore; the sea lapped the sand with Lydian whispers, and there, beyond the edge of the soft shining ripples, he saw something that made him rub his dazzled eyes.

A box, a big box, as tall as he was. No paltry dozen or two this time! Perhaps there was whisky, too, and the bubbling stuff the long necked bottle had sometimes pressed upon him in the past when he had "naused" his mail and put quids in their pockets or some of that dirty vin—something he had once indulged in with a Johnny Frenchman before he took to the tunnel, when he had been free to swagger through old Leicester square. Anyhow, he would soon find out, and, rushing through the water, he laid a proprietary hand on the box.

A long time he battered and battered in vain with his rocks; but, after an hour or so, he succeeded in splintering his way through the tough plug. In his befuddled, half-crazed condition he had thought only of bottles. What he found beneath blue skies! On such a day about 10 o'clock in the morning three persons whose appearance distinguished them from the ordinary passerby turned into a narrow thoroughfare not far from the Strand. "Quite worth while going to hear John Steele conduct for his client, I assure you, Lord Ronald," observed one, a tall, military looking man, who walked with a slight limp and carried a cane. "He's a new man, but he's making his mark. When he asked to be admitted to the English bar he surprised even his examiners. His summing up in the Dougherty murder case was, I heard his lordship remark, one of the most masterly efforts he ever listened to. Just to the circumstantial evidence to pieces and freed his man! Besides his profession at the bar, he is an unusually gifted criminologist, takes a strong personal interest in the lowest riffraff, is writing a book, I understand—one of the kind that will throw a new light on the subject."

"Just what is a criminologist?" The speaker, a girl of about eighteen, turned as she lightly asked the question to glance over her shoulder toward several persons who followed them. "One who seeks to apply to the criminal the methods of psychology, psychiatry and anthropology," he answered, with jesting impressiveness. "When one is only a sort of country cousin," the girl waved a small, daintily gloved hand to the little group of friends who now approached and joined them. "Captain Forsythe is trying to persuade me it is a legitimate part of our slumming plan to take in murder trials, uncle," she said lightly, addressing the foremost of the newcomers, "just because it's a fad of his. Speaking of this acquaintance or friend of yours, Mr. Steele—you are something of a criminologist, too, are you not, Captain Forsythe?"

"Well, every man should have a hobby," returned that individual, "and, although I don't aspire to the long name you call me, I confess to a slight amateur interest." "Slight?" she repeated. "Would you believe it, aunt—to a party lady among those who had approached—'he never misses a murder trial? I believe he likes to watch the poor fellows fighting for their lives, to study their faces, their expressions when they're being sentenced perhaps to one of those horrible convict ships?" "Don't speak of them, my dear Jocelyn," returned that worthy person, with a shudder. "When I think of the Lord Nelson and that awful night—" "You were three days in an open boat before being sighted and picked up, I believe, Lady Wray?" observed Captain Forsythe.

"Every one behaved splendidly," interposed Sir Charles. "You," gazing contemptuously at the girl, "were but a child then, Jocelyn."

She did not answer. The beautiful face had abruptly changed. All laughter had gone from the clear blue eyes. "She is thinking of the convict who saved her," observed Sir Charles in an explanatory tone to Captain Forsythe.

"And the amazing part of it is the fellow looked like a brute, had the low, ignorant face of an ex-convict." "You must not speak of him that way!" The girl's hands were clasped, the slender, shapely figure was very straight. Her beautiful blue eyes, full of varying lights, flushed, then became dimmed. A suspicion of mist blurred the long, sweeping lashes. "He had a big, noble spark in his soul, and I think of him many, many times," she repeated, the sweet, gay lips trembling sensitively. "Brave fellow! Brave fellow!"

"If he should have been drowned, though," Captain Forsythe went on. "He would, I am sure, have made a most interesting study in contrasts." Here Ronald lifted his hat. "May, I think, back this way," he observed. "That is," looking at Jocelyn Wray, "if you don't object."

"Not at all. Of course it would, for you—a thrill! You are so easily bored. Is it the club?"

"No, another engagement. Thank you so much for permission to return for you. Very kind. Hope you will find it amusing. Good morning!" And Lord Ronald vanished down the narrow way.

The others of the party entered the courtroom and were shown to the seats that Captain Forsythe had taken particular pains to reserve for them. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness
By GEORGE F. RUTLER, A. M., M. D.

A good, wide, open-mouthed yawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy. But this, is not so.

You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired, and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning, just yawn. Don't try to suppress it. If you are afraid of offending somebody, suppose you step out of the room. Then yawn to your heart's content. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn, just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of relaxing the muscles.

Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it.

Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lifting the feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

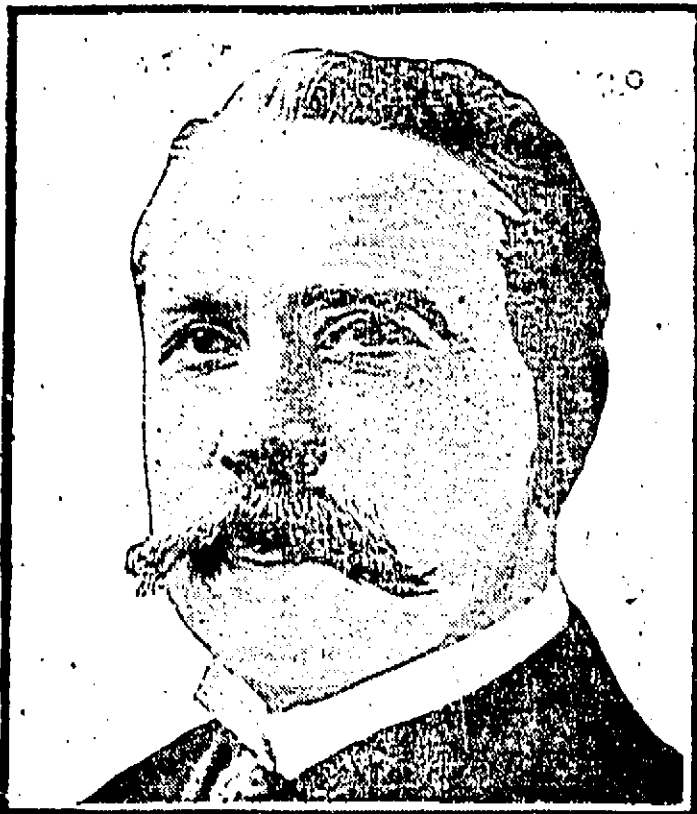

Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be reated. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you.

WISCONSIN'S GOVERNORS

JAMES O. DAVIDSON—1906-1909.

James O. Davidson, present Republican governor of Wisconsin, has the distinction of being the first Scandinavian to fill the chief executive chair of the state. He was born at Sogn, Norway, Feb. 10, 1851, and came to America in 1872, settling at Madison, Wis. Farm laborer, tailor and clerk in succession, he finally opened a general mercantile store at Soldiers Grove, which he still conducts. He has held public office for twenty years, starting as president of the village of Soldiers Grove and serving as a member of the lower house of the legislature in 1893, 1895 and 1897, as state treasurer from 1900 to 1903 and as lieutenant governor from 1903 to Jan. 1, 1906, when he became governor, succeeding R. M. La Follette, who resigned to become United States senator. After a spirited campaign he was re-nominated for governor by the Republicans in 1909 and re-elected.

EX-GOVERNOR, WIFE AND SON IN TOILS OF CUSTOM OFFICERS ON CHARGE OF SMUGGLING.

Ex-Governor Rollins of New Hampshire, who with his wife and son is held on a charge of smuggling. Mrs. Rollins is overcome by the situation.

New York.—Former Gov. Frank H. Rollins of New Hampshire, Mrs. Rollins and their son, Douglas Rollins, have been arrested on a charge of smuggling by government customs officers. They are specifically charged with conspiracy to smuggle a large quantity of wearing apparel into this country, the alleged evidence on which this charge was made having been found in three of their trunks. Six other trunks which they brought in have been seized by the government. When arrested, ex-Governor Rollins is said to have exclaimed, "I was a fool; I don't know why I tried it." This is accepted as a confession by the authorities.

CITY HEADS ARRESTED ON GRAFT CHARGE

MAYOR WILLIAM P. WHITE, Lawrence, Mass.—Close upon the return of indictments at Newburyport.

The state police arrested Mayor William P. White of this city, his secretary, Matthew Dugan, Ripon, 10 members of the present and last year's city government, and two private citizens, charging them with conspiracy in bribery, larceny and perjury.

Among the men arrested and released on bonds were ex-Aldermen Matthew Burns, Xavier Legendre, present City Chief James A. Hamilton, Messrs. George Smart, Thomas A. Keegan, John J. Cummings, Ernest Dube, Fred Koshitsky and William Johnson. The arrests were made after investigation of the charges of bribery and graft connected with the conduct of city affairs last year.

All except Cummings are held in $2,500 bonds on the charges of conspiracy to bribe, while Cummings and Ripon are held in $500 bonds, on the charge of larceny. The men are among the most popular and prominent in the city. This is the first time in the history of Massachusetts that a mayor has been arrested charged with crime. All the men got bonds.

SPENDS HOUR WITH ALEXANDRA.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Calls on British Queen Mother.

London, May 26.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt spent an hour or more in the company of the queen mother, Alexandra, while the former president received a deputation from the British group of the Interparliamentary union. This was composed of Lord Weardale, T. P. O'Connor, Sir Edward Sassoon and Arthur H. Crossfield, M. P., who presented him with an address.

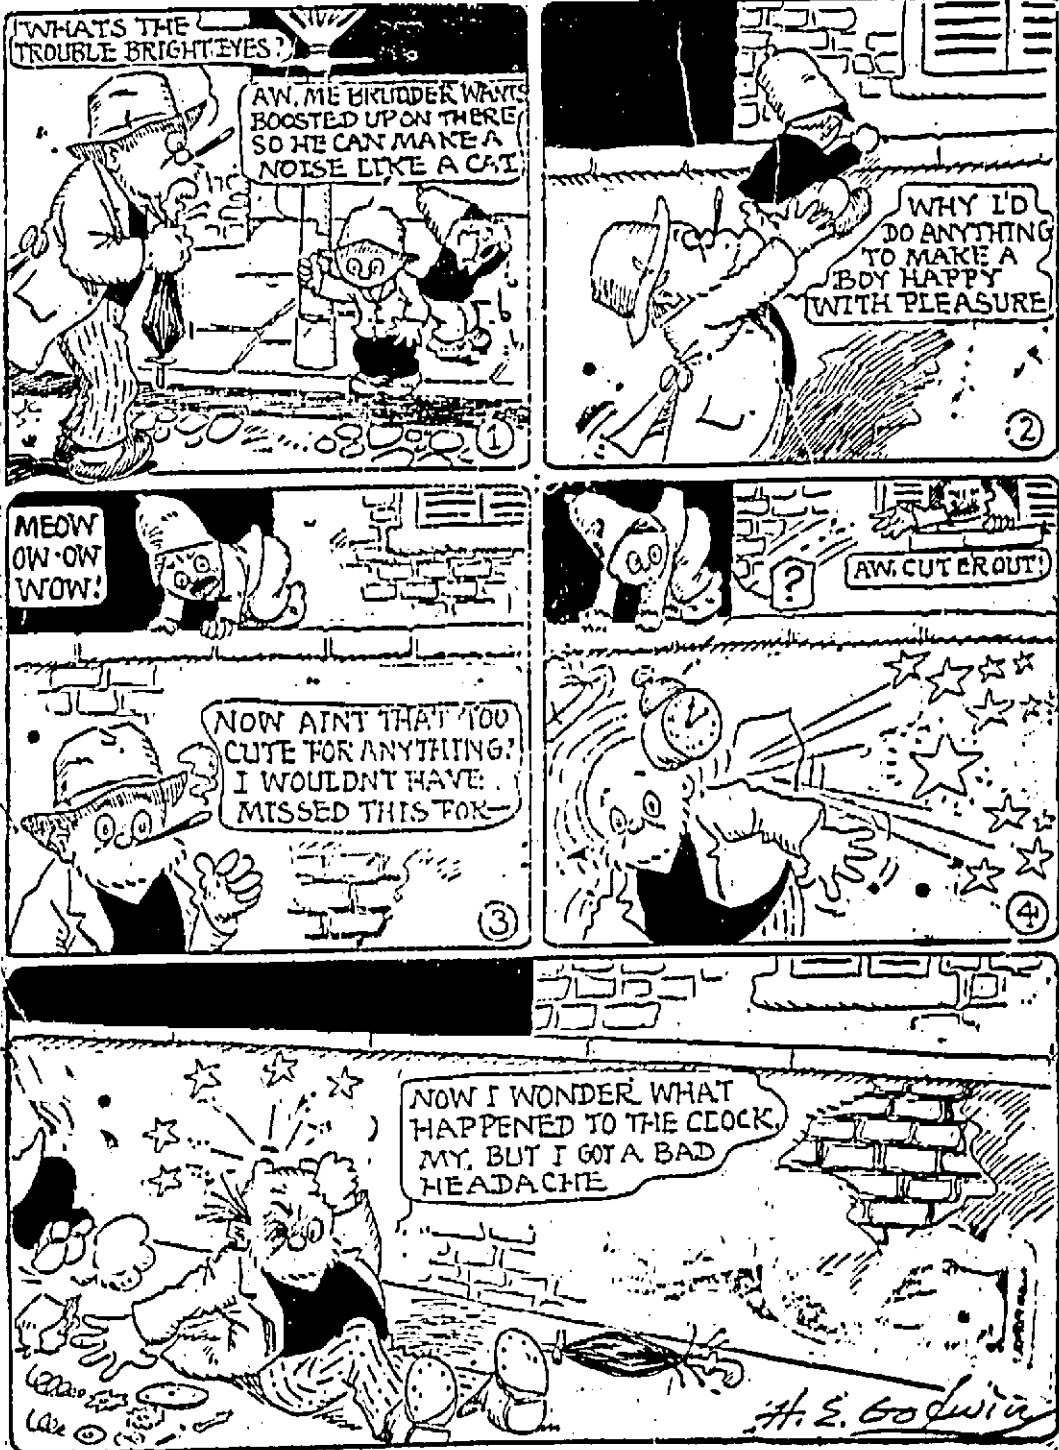

The End of It.
"Mr. Secretary," said the reporter, "I'm sure the people want to know what your department is doing in this matter."
"Well," snapped the official, "it's nobody's business."
"But public matters of this nature are everybody's business."
"And what's everybody's business is nobody's business, you know. Good-day."
